State board president and nearly 30 other Iowa electric co-op leaders are in Washington, D.C., with more than 2,000 of their counterparts to protect electric co-operatives' priorities

WHO: Nearly 30 electric co-op managers, directors and key staff from electric cooperatives in Iowa along with more than 2,000 of their counterparts from electric co-ops across the nation

WHAT: National Rural Electric Cooperative Association annual Legislative Conference to protect electric co-ops' priorities in the nation's Capitol

WHERE: Washington, D.C.

WHEN: May 2-5

WHY it's important: Congress is poised to take action on climate legislation, energy efficiency and other energy-related issues, and this annual event provides an opportunity for the voices of electric cooperative member-consumers to be heard in the halls of Congress.

About the Iowa Association of Electric Cooperatives The Iowa Association of Electric Cooperatives, formed in 1942, represents the interests of and provides support to the electric cooperatives that provide power in each of Iowa's 99 counties to approximately 650,000 people.

NOTE: State board president Marion Denger from Dows, Iowa, and board president of Prairie Energy Cooperative; secretary treasurer Larry Rohach from Reinbeck, Iowa, and board president of Grundy County REC; and, Steve Seidl, assistant secretary-treasurer from Coon Rapids, Iowa, and board president of Raccoon Valley Electric Cooperative in Glidden are available for interviews. Please contact Allan Urlis at 515-720-2979 to set up an interview.
